A REVISED FORM.

A paper published in Manila says: "The following couple of verses were taken from The Cleveland Plain Dealer, and show the nine taken idea people at home have of Aguinaldo and his followers. We take the liberty of appending a concoction of our own, which spoils for the above estimable paper."

As it was written:

We rather like your style, Aguinaldo.
You are at all the while, Aguinaldo.
You step right out and fight, And you hit with all your might, And you make the rivals a sight, Aguinaldo.
And when all's said and done, Aguinaldo,
We'll remember you, my son, Aguinaldo.
You're the friend of Uncle Sam, And you'll find he's not a clam When he hands around the jam, Aguinaldo.

As it should have been written:
We do not like your style, Aguinaldo.
The leaders had to rise, Aguinaldo.
They'll make you look a sight If you don't make a fight, Aguinaldo.
You'll be knocked clean out of sight, Aguinaldo.
And time for you to run, Aguinaldo.
When Uncle "gets his gun," Aguinaldo.
He will do the job first rate, For he'll "lay you out in state," If you do not "pull your freight," Aguinaldo.

VERY FISHY.

Colored Man Reported to Have Found a $5,000 Package Near Dover.

One of THE LEADER's good friends who has never been charged with relationship to Ananias brought to this office yesterday the following sensational story, which at the time it was alleged to have occurred was duly mentioned in THE DAILY NEWS.

Robert Stroud, colored, is reported to have found an Express package lying on the C. and O. Railway between Dover and South Ripley. He picked it up and turned it over to the C. and O. Agent at the latter place, who promptly and generously rewarded his honesty with $25 cents.

The package is said to have contained $5,000 in Uncle Sam's artistic greenbacks. Of course the South Ripley Agent is out of pocket just the amount he paid to Mr. Stroud, for "senseless corporations" never give up anything.

THE LEADER does not vouch for the story but inclines to the belief that $5,000 packages are not generally stolen because to Express cars with the possibility of falling off anywhere along the line.

They are generally found in iron safes and before leaving the express office and the chances are largely that somebody has been hoodwinked by a most wonderful story that our informant has just awakened to the fact that an ordinary package of no real value was found near Dover by a colored man more than two weeks ago and turned over to the proper authorities.

A. R. CHICAGO BUTCHER

Albert Becker Broke Down and Confessed to Killing His Wife, Teresa Becker.

HE MURDERED HER ON JANUARY 27.

Becker Says They Walked on the Viaduct, Quarreled and He Threw Her Into the Lake.

The Story is Looked Upon by the Officers With Suspicion—All the Evidence, They Say, Indicate a Far More Brutal Method of Murder.

CHICAGO, March 2.—Albert Becker, the South Side butcher, who has been in custody for a week on suspicion of having murdered his first wife, Teresa Becker, broke down Wednesday night under the long-continued cross-questioning of the police and made a complete confession.

"I killed her on January 27," said Becker, defiantly. "We were walking on the Randolph street viaduct and began quarreling. I became angry and threw her into the lake. Then I went home."

Since Becker's arrest, his second wife, 17-year-old Ella Sutterlin, has been in custody. Becker inquired continually for her, asking the police why she was not released. He was always given an evasive answer, but apparently receiving the impression that Eda would in some way be connected with the disappearance of his first wife, Becker, according to the officers of the police, finding him self in order to absolve her from any blame. The body of the murdered woman has not yet been found.

Becker's story of the crime is looked upon with suspicion by many of the officers who have been working on the case. All the evidence gathered has indicated a far more brutal method of murder than drowning and the opinion is expressed that Becker, finding himself cornered, told a story that reflected as lightly as possible upon himself.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business on February 28, 1899, the debt, less cash in the treasury, was $1,879,994,901, an increase during the month of $2,379,641. Debt bearing no interest, $385,404,964. Total, $1,497,097,908.

This amount, however, does not include $255,528,513 in certificates and treasury notes offset by an equal amount of cash in the treasury. The cash in the treasury is recapitulated as follows:

THE CRISIS IS PAST.

Mr. Kipling's Condition Better. Temperature and Pulse Low and in Every Direction Improvement is Marked.

New York, March 2.—The condition of Rudyard Kipling was very much improved Wednesday night. The crisis in the disease was passed Wednesday morning. Tuesday night's dispatches indicated that the crisis was close at hand and that it was because of this the physicians displayed so much anxiety concerning the outcome. At 2:15 Wednesday afternoon the following bulletin was received:

"Mr. Kipling has gained since this morning. The temperature and pulse are low and in every direction the improvement is noted."

"E. D. JANEWAY."

"THEODORE DUNHAM."

This was the ninth day of Mr. Kipling's illness. In pneumonia the crisis is usually reached by the seventh or eighth day, but it may be delayed until the fourteenth. Therefore, there were 48 hours during which the physicians hardly left their patient's side. During that time Kipling suffered greatly by the long-continued cross-questioning of the police and made a complete confession.

"I killed her on January 27," said Becker, defiantly. "We were walking on the Randolph street viaduct and began quarreling. I became angry and threw her into the lake. Then I went home."

LORD HERSCHEL IS DEAD.

He Was Stricken by Heart Trouble in Washington—Was Chairman of the Joint High Commission.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—Lord Herschel, chairman of the Canadian branch of the joint high commission, died suddenly at the Shoreham hotel, shortly after 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

About February 4, while returning to his hotel from a visit to Senator Gray, Lord Herschel fell on the icy pavement and broke his hip, and had since been confined to his room. He was recovering from this injury, however. Dr. W. W. Johnson, who was called in Wednesday morning, says the accident to his hip had nothing to do with his death.

Dr. Halstead, of Baltimore, had been treating him for the broken hip, and up to Wednesday his improvement seemed steady and rapid. At 6 o'clock, shortly after he awoke from a refreshing sleep, Lord Herschel complained of difficulty in his breathing.

He became rapidly worse, and at 6:30 Dr. Johnson, who had been consulting with Dr. Halstead, was hastily summoned. The physician reached Lord Herschel's bedside shortly before 7.

The distinguished patient was unconscious and died within a few minutes.

In the senate Wednesday afternoon Mr. Fairbanks offered the following resolutions:

"That the senate has heard with profound sensibility of the death of Lord Farrer Herschel, an eminent jurist and statesman of Great Britain, formerly lord high chancellor, a member of the United States and British joint high commission.

"That the president of the senate is requested to convey to her majesty, the queen of Great Britain, the sympathy of the senate of the United States in the great loss which she and the people of Great Britain have sustained by the death of Lord Herschel."

THE ARMY BILL.

House Military Committee Agrees to Accept the Senate Measure Without Amendment.

NO CHANCE OF AN EXTRA SESSION.

Session of the Committee Was Very Spirited and Representative Marsh at One Point Withdrew.

The Vote on Agreeing to Senate Bill Was 10 to 3—Three Democrats With Seven Republicans Voted For—Two Democrats, One Republican Against.

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The house military committee has agreed to accept the senate army bill without amendment.

Great interest was manifested in the meeting of the house military committee, as it was felt that a complete acceptance of the senate bill largely, if not entirely, removed the chance of an extra session.

The session of the committee was very spirited, and at one point Representative Marsh, of Illinois, withdrew from the ground that the course of the committee in adopting an amendment would open up the whole controversy and precipitate an extra session.

After his withdrawal the amendment was reconsidered and withdrawn. Mr. Marsh returned to the committee. The final vote on agreeing to the senate bill was 10 to 3. Three democrats, Sulzer, Cox and Jett, voted with seven republicans in the affirmative.

When he consented to the operation, his illness said to Dr. Lippincott: "It is a truly disagreeable thing to me to separate myself from this cyst just when I am about to go, after having his company for a third of my life."

During the operation he cried out "Do you want to play these tricks upon me at my age?"

Then he lay down composedly on his right side. Although the courage which the patient displayed gave the doctors courage, they feared to use chloroform, and used instead a liquid anesthetic consisting of cocaine, chloride of sodium and morphia.

Going to the size of the growth the excision occupied some time, but Dr. Mazzoni quickly traced the extent of the growth and the actual operation lasted 12 minutes. The pope played correct fortitude. After the bandaging he was carried back to the bed and once the feeling of faintness due to shock and loss of blood had passed away he appeared quite calm. The fever quickly subsided, confirming the diagnoses of the doctors.

LONDON, March 2.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The pope is still suffering from difficulty in respiration and from pain in the lumbar region. Dr. Mazzoni has informed me that it is possible pneumonia may disclose itself. Altogether the progress of the disorder is problematical."

After the bandaging he was carried back to the bed and once the feeling of faintness due to shock and loss of blood had passed away he appeared quite calm. The fever quickly subsided, confirming the diagnoses of the doctors.

LONDON, March 2.—The Rome correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "The pope is still suffering from difficulty in respiration and from pain in the lumbar region. Dr. Mazzoni has informed me that it is possible pneumonia may disclose itself. Altogether the progress of the disorder is problematical."

When he consented to the operation, his illness said to Dr. Lippincott: "It is a truly disagreeable thing to me to separate myself from this cyst just when I am about to go, after having his company for a third of my life."

During the operation he cried out "Do you want to play these tricks upon me at my age?"

Then he lay down composedly on his right side. Although the courage which the patient displayed gave the doctors courage, they feared to use chloroform, and used instead a liquid anesthetic consisting of cocaine, chloride of sodium and morphia.

Going to the size of the growth the excision occupied some time, but Dr. Mazzoni quickly traced the extent of the growth and the actual operation lasted 12 minutes. The pope played correct fortitude. THE POPE'S CONDITION GOOD.

A Troublesome Cyst of Long Standing Removed by the Physicians. It Is Thought He Will Survive the Operation.

ROME, March 2.—Pope Leo was resting easily Wednesday evening. A cyst was removed from his holiness. The cyst had been forming probably for 50 years. The only persons present at the operation were Dr. Mazzoni, Dr. Lippincott, who assisted, and Dr. Pio Centra, the pope's personal attendant. At half past nine his holiness was carried on a litter to a window of his apartment. Smiling, he said to the doctors:

"Do you want to play these tricks upon me at my age?"

Then he lay down composedly on his right side. Although the courage which the patient displayed gave the doctors courage, they feared to use chloroform, and used instead a liquid anesthetic consisting of cocaine, chloride of sodium and morphia.
